as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is scalously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not sevil purposes. I have personally investigated it and ann satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will core entirely the worst form of falling pain. It will core entirely the worst form of falling pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhose, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomson. It curves Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleepleseness, Depreasion and Indigection. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1, per bottle or six for $5, and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be es every portion of the system, and gives the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, as her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Eldney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best is the storid for the cure of Constipation, Billousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

A Story for Dog Days.

BY HON. A. B. RICHMOND.

Mad dog, mad dog! The cry startled the denizens of a street in our city one summer evening. It was taken up and repeated by every vagabond throat and slanderous tongue along the thoroughfare and all the inhabitants rushed to the doors to see this common enemy of mankind.

From my window I saw a large pacific looking dog deliberately trotting along the centre of the roadway. He was dusty and travel stained, and his lolling tongue showed he was weary and overcome with the heat of the day-perhaps the instincts of self preservation led him to choose the middle of a street whose sides were lined with beer saloons-and thronged with the "traveling public" for whose comfort they are licensedwith drooping head the dog proceeded on his way seemingly unconscious of the clamor that followed him.

What first gave rise to the suspicion that he was mad, or who first started the cry, none knew or stopped to enquire, but the slander was repeated in stentorian accents by all who heard it. He passed two squares in safety, assailed only by the yelp of the mob that thronged the sidewalk, till, as he passed a saloon one of the inmates hurled a stone beer bottle at him, this was more than the noble animal could stand, he turned toward his assailant with a growl 'that made the valient crowd retreat within the saloon and take refuge behind the counter. The dog followed to the door when his nostrils were assailed by the odor of the licensed nastiness within, he snuffled the tainted air a moment, dropped his tail in disgust and was turning away, when a policeman with a brilliant star on his coat and a countenance glowing with beer and a sense of official duty, came up and shot the persecuted animal to death. The jeering crowd that watched his dying agonies was thrust aside by the stalwart form of a man dressed like a frontiersman. "Who killed my dog?" he shouted in tones of thunder, as he glared upon the crowd. "Show me the scoundrel who shot my dog," he repeated. "I did it," said the policeman, who stood with the revolver in hand. "What for enquired the angry man as he stepped toward the officer, whose face paled before the old man. "What for," he repeated, and before the policeman could answer, a blow from the gigantic fist of his interrogator sent him into the gutter in almost as lifeless a condition as the poor dog. Other officers came up and the owner of the dog was, with some difficulty, arrested and taken before a magistrate, charged with assaulting an officer while discharging his duty. When asked if he struck the officer he said, "I don't know whether he's an officer but I knocked the galute that killed my dog. Of course I did. What did he kill my dog for I want to know?" The magistrate informed him that it was now 'dog-days,' and that a city ordinance authorized any policeman to kill any dog found running the streets without a muzzle on. "What for," again enquired the culprit. "What do you want to muzzle the dog for, I don't understand. I wouldn't a took a hundred dollars for Tige." He was told that people were afraid of hydrophobia, and he was fined ten dollars for the assault on the officer. "Hy-dro-fo-ba" said the old man in a contemptuous tone as he deposited a ten dollar gold piece on deposited a ten dollar gold piece on the desk of the magistrate. "Hydro-fo-ba. Well, Squire, I'll just tell ye what I think, I think this is a right peart town of your'n but its in a cussed sight more danger from a whisky, fo-ba than hy-dro-fo-ba, and when your so — keerful about the dogs, why in h—l don't you muzzle the whisky? I seen twenty fellows up why in h—l don't you muzzle the whisky? I seen twenty fellows up where they shot Tige, that was bit with whiskey a darned sight worse than any dog could bite 'em, even if he had the hy-dro-fo-ba. Good bye Squire, I don't hold no grudge agin you, but d—n the foolishness of a town that'll muzzle the dogs in dog days, and license whisky all the year round. I say there is a dozen whisky shops on this street, and I tell you Squire they'll bite more men to death in a year with whisky fo-ba than all the dogs did with hy-dro-fo-ba since you was born. Now don't you forgit it!"

The countryman departed—but his remarks suggested the question, how shall we muzzle whiskey, that "biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder? There is one way, and but one, and that is by the power of the law. Bind upon it the muzzle of prohibition, and in the lifetime of this generation hundreds of thousands of men and women will be rescued from drunkard's lives and pauper's graves.
